

BPOS

The British Psychosocial Oncology Society (BPOS) is a multidisciplinary organisation for the advancement of education, research and practice based care in psychosocial oncology

BPOS is a registered charity run by an elected multidisciplinary executive committee that aims to:

- Provide a forum for professionals to meet, present research and to discuss new ideas and developments
- Encourage research, education and higher standards of training in psychosocial oncology
- Improve the quality of care for cancer patients
- Promote knowledge and implementation of the principles of psychosocial oncology amongst those working with people with cancer and their families

JOIN US!!

We welcome anyone with an interest in psychosocial oncology to become a member of BPOS and/or stand for nomination on the executive committee. Executive committee positions regularly come up for nomination and are advertised on our website

(<https://www.bpos.org>)

BPOS members get regular society newsletters and eBulletins, discounted rates to society events, an online subscription to Psycho-Oncology (our society affiliated journal) and access to the members only section of the website.

Annual BPOS membership is £35 for full membership and £25 for students

For further information or to join please go to:
<https://www.bpos.org/join-bpos/subscription-options/>