

BPOS Student and Early Career Researcher Online conference

Wednesday 16th June 2021, 1-3pm

Perspectives on conducting psychosocial oncology research during the COVID-19 pandemic

Invited speakers:

Dr Lynn Calman, Associate Professor, Deputy Director Macmillan Survivorship Research Group (MSRG), University of Southampton.

Dr Sarah Gelcich, Research Fellow, Patient Centred Outcomes Research, University of Leeds.

Lynsey Fenwick, PhD Researcher, Leeds Beckett University.

We are also inviting students and early career researchers to share their perspectives of researching within the psychosocial oncology setting during the covid-19 pandemic.

Selected presenters will be asked to prepare a 5-minute presentation using 1 PowerPoint slide to explain:

- Your research area and aims
- The most significant implications of the pandemic upon your research
- Changes you have made to your research and/or methodology/methods
- Any consequences on your research outcomes

If you would like to get involved, please submit a 300 word abstract by 31st May to: sara.matthews-2019@brookes.ac.uk or I.king6955@student.leedsbeckett.ac.uk

We will select a range of entries to present at the meeting and the best presentation will win a £50 Amazon voucher.

This event is free for BPOS members. Not a member? Join BPOS in 2021 & get 2022 included! Student membership = £25, Full membership = £35 <https://www.bpos.org/>

Register for the event here:

<https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/bpos-studentearly-career-event-tickets-154723792027>